Mike Hensley, CSR, RDR

Mike Hensley, CSR, RDR, is a freelance deposition reporter based in Dublin, California, providing services throughout California as well as Nevada and Illinois. As part of the new generation of court reporters, he completed his training in a unique manner: entirely online. His experience has made him an avid enthusiast of technology and its application to the court reporting profession. Along with mentoring several student reporters, Mike serves on the board of directors for the California Court Reporters Association and is also chair of the New Professionals Advisory Committee and the Educational Content Committee for the National Court Reporters Association.
